MANAGER COMMENTS

The ARC Bullion Account GBP posted a small gain this month, whilst in comparison spot gold fell 0.54% in the same period. More importantly the account is perfectly positioned as we enter March as I have raised the weighting to gold.

While the gold market waits for a catalyst with prices consolidating above 1,619 an ounce, the demand from central banks will likely support prices, and for those who need to clarification - during the last two years central bank purchases of gold as a share in global demand has tripled, should this trend continue through 2024 this factor alone could push the metal back to record highs by year end. This should come as no surprise; Gold has proven to be an attractive alternative to bonds and recently it has clearly been a stable asset. The yellow metals performance during 2022–23, despite a hefty rise in the global real rates, makes for a very solid case indeed. As Central banks continue to move to diversify away from the U.S. dollar, this in turn adds further momentum to both the de-dollarization, and deglobalization trends. In recent weeks, the US and UK have launched strikes against the Houthis in Yemen in response to attacks on ships in the Red Sea. The region remains a powder keg, and the conflict is spilling into more and more countries, with no end seemingly in sight. Given the above 2024 certainly has the potential for the metal to produce further gains.

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

To provide a secure alternative to that offered by the lackluster industry standard bullion investment products or funds. The ARC holds 100% of its Bullion assets in unencumbered and uncirculated one ounce Gold coins, officially released by several government mints. The ARC selected gold coins because they offer a significant legal and monetary advantage over that offered by the traditional Bullion bars.

Analysis confirms that gold can be used within investment portfolios to protect global purchasing power; today this is very pertinent given that several governments are employing policies which ultimately target a devaluation of their individual currencies. As this global currency war has escalated there has been an increased risk of a currency debasement and the fact that gold can offer protection from this event is very attractive in itself. There are a multitude of reasons to invest in physical gold, notwithstanding the fact that it also offers portfolio protection, in terms of currency devaluation and/or inflation. Bullion also reduces portfolio volatility and can minimise loss during periods of both political upheaval and market shock.
