MANAGER COMMENTS

The RIO Regular Investment Account GBP gained 1.12% during January, a positive start to the year. I sold 9% of the account's equity position prior to the inauguration of Donald Trump, taking both the profits and capital back to safety. Following the inauguration, I continued to take profits, and on Thursday 24th I sold British American Tobacco stock banking gains for those invested. As the month drew to an end, I closed what would be the final trade of the period, selling Tesco plc stock on the 31st, moving both the profits and the original capital back to cash.

The Market - Historically RIO has looked towards the FTSE 100 index for high dividend yields, however, there may be good reason to think that, in 2025, certain dividend stocks listed on the FTSE 250 may be worth considering. On the FTSE 100 some 70% of earnings come from overseas and RIO will continue to focus predominantly on stocks listed on this index, however, our analysts have identified a few select stocks listed on the 250, which may have significant upside potential. It's worth noting that UK equities trade on meaningfully lower valuation multiples than they have done historically and trade at a substantial discount to several other markets, including the US.

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

The RIO Regular Investment Account GBP is a high-risk trading platform through which RIO invests in currency, UK equities and commodity markets. The Account may also invest in other high risk traded securities, where the potential gains are deemed to be in line with the risk reward ratio, at the discretion of the investment manager. The trading strategy favours a midterm investment of 2-3 years due to the expected short-term volatility.

Brexit sparked an unprecedented wave of volatility in UK markets. The pound immediately plunged to its lowest in 30 years and has since suffered very large intra-day moves. The FTSE 100 tanked before rallying and enjoying one of its best up cycles in recent times achieving a series of record highs in early 2017. As an active trader these types of swings are a prime investment opportunity and we expect further volatility associated with Brexit negotiations in coming months, these swings could easily produce a prime investment opportunity. Exiting the EU will affect UK companies. The Account will focus predominantly on trading those entities listed on the FTSE 100 index and has identified several trading opportunities.
